

My Opinion.

With my new life and new breath, I went after to find a gathering of people who felt the same way I did. I went to a Baptist Church who welcomed me. I went to a Presbyterian Church who told me I was not welcome. Maybe it was expressing my experience to one of the representatives that turned the Presbyterians away from me. Who knows why. I realized not every church embraces spirit. With the Baptist I fit right in. With all the evangelical churches I fit right in.

After a while I noticed giving without expectations of a reward resulted in mysterious beneficial events happening to me. Now I see the smallest of giving to the lowest returns great having. Making right of my wrongs brings even greater events. The greater a wrong is corrected according to the victims demands meant the greater the event. Saying the prayer is like putting pennies in a jar where a million dollars is added up from the pennies.

I find I cannot cheat. The man or his boss is watching everything I do. Somethings he may be waiting to get me on but most things are corrected to me in an instant. So I learned if a wrong is let to pass it is because the day will come when I realize I must correct it then when I do the events are great for me. Maybe he lets some things pass for the time being so I can take care later when I cannot escape them.

At church the pastor asked who wants to be saved? In my heart I felt sad that I was not worthy to be saved. He asked me again and I told him I am not worth saving. Feeling that in my heart was the key that opened the door. You see the man asked me if I wanted to join. That was only the beginning. Once I joined is when the instructions began and the letting me in to the power was starting to take hold.

I thought about not worth saving and it reminded me of the old testament where Abraham was instructed by God to kill his son. As he followed the will of God an angel came and stopped him telling him he had proven his loyalty. I am not worth saving because if that was asked of me I would decline and take the wrath rather than destroy what I loved and what loved me back. For that I have sinned and would fail that test.

We are offered hope in the new testament but there I fail even worse. As it says forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us. Right there I fail every time. I am a hypocrite when I expect forgiveness in the prayer because I do not forgive others. I may say I forgive. I may bury, hide, fight to forgive but my nature is not to forgive entirely. To not forgive entirely is not forgiving when Gods love is pure my forgiveness is not so there I failed again.

At least I have an out. When it says treat others the way you would have others treat you really get me off the hook. I admit my forgiveness is not pure so I do not deserve to be forgiven which lets me treat hers the way I would want them to treat me. It is like the old testament an eye for an eye. But the new testament is treat others the way you would have them treat me. This is where truth and the world meet. Let's say I bought a car and did not make the payments. Is it realistic to feel that the bank should treat me differently than other borrowers who do not pay and treat me differently by letting me keep the car and not pay? Of course not. I would expect them to take the car. Everyone who fails to make payments hides and aids detection to keep the car not being paid for. So if someone wrongs me I take action to recover the thing just like I would expect others to do the same if I did the wrong to another.

Now I may or may not get the wrong corrected by using the worlds laws but I do not feel guilty trying to get what was taken. Tis may tie into voluntarily correcting a wrong I may have gotten away with or correcting a wrong rather than fighting the one who was wrong and justify why I should not correct a wrong or even deny a wrong when I know the thing was wrong in my heart. So by voluntarily correcting instead of denying a wrong I am given great events.

Another side note is not wasting a second if it can be done now then it is done now or as soon as possible without delay. Also take a lot of time to absorb what is going on. Most absorb what is going on fast. I can't do that I take an extremely long time to figure out what is going on. It is called reactionary. Good for me I joined those who allow me the time to absorb and guard me against reacting. Everything is either yes or no. It is the gray that has caused all y problems.
